Earn 5 AIA/CES HSW Learning Units

This seminar is intended for architects, building owners, municipal managers, ADA coordinators, code officials and anyone who determines if an environment complies with the ADA Accessibility Requirements.

A total of 5.0 AIA/CES HSW Learning Units will be issued to architects attending this 2010 ADA Standards for Accessible Design seminar. All Attendees will receive a Certificate of Attendance for their continuing education reporting needs stating that the program qualified for 5 AIA HSW learning units.

United Spinal Association is a Registered Provider with The American Institute of Architects Continuing Education Systems. Credit earned on completion of this program will be reported to CES Records for AIA members. Certificates of Completion for non-AIA members are available on request".

The 2010 ADA Standards for Accessible Design became mandatory for new construction, alterations and barrier removal efforts on March 15, 2012 and they ultimately update accessibility requirements for a wide range of facilities in the both the public and private sectors covered by the ADA. Given this update to ADA standards that impact the built environment, we are offering a training seminar that will help clarify what the major changes are between the 1991 ADA Accessibility Guidelines and the 2010 ADA Standards for Accessible Design.

This 5 hour seminar, presented by Jennifer Perry of United Spinal Association, will review "highlights" of the accessibility requirements found in the VA Construction Code/ICC ANSI A117.1 as well as the 2010 ADA Standards for Accessible Design.

A review of major changes to accessibility requirements that impact features common to both commercial and residential facilities will be discussed in the morning session and the latter part of the seminar will highlight the Principles of Universal Design and provide information on the latest research and trends in Universal Design.

Topics that will be covered include:

- Effective dates for the 2010 ADA Standards for Accessible Design
- Information on the development process associated with the 2010 Standards for Accessible Design - including the ADA (State and local govt. and private businesses) and ABA (Federal) requirements.
- Discuss when the ADA Barrier Removal and Program Access requirements apply to existing facilities
- Exterior & interior accessible routes (walking surfaces, doors, protruding objects, etc...including new requirements for accessible routes in specific occupancies i.e. employee work areas)
- Accessible parking
- Options for vertical access (elevators, ramps, lifts)
- Toilet and bathing facilities (comparison of 1991 ADAAG toilet room layouts vs. 2010 ADA Standards and ANSI A117.1 requirements)
- Special Occupancy requirements (employee work areas, customer service facilities, places of assembly)
- Review of new requirements for Recreation Facilities (swimming pools, play areas, etc...)
- Review of the Principles of Universal Design

Jennifer L. Perry
Compliance Specialist
Accessibility Services

Jennifer Perry has worked in the accessibility field for over thirteen years. She provides accessibility training for architects and code officials and also provides technical assistance to these individuals. She has developed numerous training presentations that are tailor made to specific jurisdictions nationwide. Jennifer is also involved in the model code accessibility development process via her International Code Council (ICC) committee work (Government Relations Task Group and Visitability Task Group). She provides plan review services for accessibility compliance and performs accessibility site assessments to ensure compliance with state and/or federal accessibility requirements.

Prior to joining the Accessibility Services division of United Spinal Association in 2001, Jennifer worked in the organization's Government Relations Department where she advocated for the civil rights of individuals with spinal cord injury/disease. Additionally, she has worked on implementing legislation that improved the lives of people with disabilities including extensive involvement in the adoption process of the model building code in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Ms. Perry is certified by the International Code Council as an Accessibility Specialist/Plans Examiner and she is a registered provider of continuing education for the American Institute of Architects (AIA), the International Code Council (ICC) and the Pennsylvania Department of Labor & Industry. She is also approved by the PA Department of Labor & Industry to provide plan review services in the Commonwealth for accessibility compliance. She served on the Philadelphia Accessibility Advisory Board for seven years and is a current member of the Board of Directors for the Fair Housing Council of Suburban Philadelphia. Jennifer holds a Bachelor of Arts degree in Political Science & French from King's College, Wilkes-Barre, PA.
